HOW TO USE THIS CALENDAR

01 PLAN SUNDAY NIGHT Look ahead at the week. Aim for at least one activity per category across the week — you don't need to do all five every day.	02 AIM FOR BALANCE A dog that only gets physical exercise but no mental stimulation, or training but no calm settling, is not fully enriched. Rotate across all five categories.	03 RECORD HONESTLY If you skip a day, note it. Patterns in what gets skipped often point to what your dog finds harder — which is usually what they need most.
04 ADJUST FOR LIFE STAGE Puppies need shorter, more frequent sessions. Adolescents need more mental stimulation and calm settling. Senior dogs still benefit from enrichment — keep it gentle.	05 BREED DIFFERENCES MATTER Beagles are scent-first: nose-down activities reduce stress and improve focus. Corgis are task-first: they need a job, not just entertainment. Use the breed columns accordingly.	06 THIS IS A GUIDE, NOT A RULE Some weeks you'll manage one activity. Some weeks you'll do everything. The calendar exists to prompt, not to judge. Any enrichment is better than none.
